REPORT OF THE SCHOOL BOARD.

The completion of the new school house in the east part of the town, for which $600.00 was appropriated at the last school meeting, places us among the New Hampshire towns that are creditably supplied in that respect. We feel that we need no longer be ashamed of our school houses. They are good enough for any small town, and we congratulate the citizens of Greenfield upon the fact that we haven't a poor school house in town.

It will be seen by the report that your committee overrun the appropriation by a little over $60.00. We built the school house for the amount appropriated, but are still in debt for the desks and furniture. We feel confident, however, that no one who has looked it over will say that the money was not wisely expended. We have yet to hear a man say we could have done all that should have been done with less money. The interests of the town are one, and one portion can not be improved without benefitting the whole town.

Now that the town has provided so well for the schools, we think parents should appreciate it and see that their children regularly attend. There is much need of improvement along this line. The town has provided liberally for our children. We have pleasant, well-furnished schools. Books, and everything the scholar needs, are provided without cost to the pupils. Rich and poor fare alike—the poorest child in town can have equal advantages with the richest. It only remains for the parents to see to it that their children do their part and take these advantages for which the town pays. It is right here the trouble lies. Parents seem to think a day or two lost every week no harm. The fact is, every day a child is absent he loses something he may never have a chance to make up, for in one school this last year there were 365 whole days lost in one term in this way. That means that some of our children have lost something that money cannot buy and will be just so much loss to them all through their lives. Then again, many children who do regularly attend school fail to derive as much benefit from it as they otherwise would, because they hear the teacher criticised so much at home. The best teacher that ever lived cannot overcome the harm done by this. The poorest teacher will teach pupils enough to pay for sending them if they are not so prejudiced at home. Even if the teacher is not very good, we gain nothing and lose much by telling the children we think so. We should make the best of it instead of the worst of it.

With the money appropriated for that purpose, we have greatly improved the grounds of the village school, and can take pride in its appearance. We believe the town is acting very wisely in being so liberal about school matters. Our children can have no reason to be ashamed to own their birthplace. Greenfield is, and will be, a good place to be born in and to live in.
